ABSTRACT

At IEEE Computer Society Press, a medium-sized provider of published information delivered in the form of books, magazines, journals and conference proceedings, we are seeking answers to the question: after 2000 years of paper-based publishing, what's next? We discuss our efforts to meet the differing requirements of end-users of information: individuals, libraries, conference organizers and attendees. Our experiences and future plans for publishing with respect to paper, CD-ROM, Internet/WWW, and digital libraries are discussed.
